

FRESH TROOPS SENT TO SCENE

French Government Determined to Suppress Revolt of the Wine Growers.

SURRENDER OF MUTINEERS

PREMIER RECEIVES VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

Beziers, France, June 21.—Accompanied only by a staff officer and one other person, General Bailloud today approached the mutineers of the Seventeenth regiment, exhorting them to return to duty. He promised the men that they would be treated with all possible leniency. After a slight hesitation, the soldiers surrendered their rifles and ammunition and promised to return to their quarters. They have until tomorrow to do so.

Paris, June 21.—Fortified by a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies and by the receipt of assurances that the government forces gradually are gaining the ascendancy throughout the rebellious departments in the south, the ministers tonight inclined to believe that the danger of a less threatening phase. The mutiny and desertion from Beziers of a battalion of the Seventeenth regiment, followed by circumstantial stories of similar defections at other garrisons, but which later turned out to be untrue, caused widespread alarm, not only in official circles, but throughout the entire country.

The war office lost no time in ordering fresh troops to the scene, and fully a score of regiments of all arms were despatched to Narbonne, Montpellier and Beziers or were held in readiness.

Feeling of Relief.
Just before adjournment of the chamber tonight Premier Clemenceau was able to announce the surrender of the mutinous battalion of the Seventeenth regiment, and the hearty applause that followed indicated how deep was the relief. It is realized on all sides that the danger of civil war has been completely disappeared, but those at the helm seem satisfied with the progress toward the repression of the revolt.

The ministers intend to take no chances. Martial law is now in force throughout the whole of the disturbed area and will be maintained until normal civil life can be resumed.

Will Discourage Malcontents.

Tonight's vote in the chamber, it is believed, will have considerable effect on the malcontents, who apparently expected that the government's repressive measures would not be approved by parliament. The decision of the chamber to hold a session tomorrow and expedite the wine frauds bill will assist the work of conciliation. It is hoped. Although apart from the mutiny in the Seventeenth regiment no serious outbreaks were reported up to midnight, the number of cases of tearing up of railroad tracks, seizing of officials who are held as hostages and kidnapping isolated police has justified the belief that the militant populace might, if leaders were forthcoming, be organized for guerrilla warfare. The whereabouts of M. Albert, leader of the movement, remains a mystery.

DAY OF EXCITEMENT.

Chamber of Deputies Crowded by Paris People.

Paris, June 21.—By a majority of 104 the chamber of deputies this afternoon voted confidence in the government and the ministers a free hand to employ the measures they think best to re-establish order in the disturbed southern departments.

The result came after a day of excitement over the desertion of troops, following the widespread disorders of the wine growers.

The grave view the French capital takes of the revolutionary attempt, and the tragic outcome was evidenced by the scene in the chamber of deputies when the government was interpellated on the measures it proposed to take. Even standing room was not obtainable. Many women listened to the debate, which at times was superheated.

Premier Stood Firm.

Premier Clemenceau lost no time in imparting to the deputies the news from Narbonne, adding to the information already published the fact that a hundred soldiers were wounded in the fighting yesterday. The rioters, he said, had disappeared from the streets. Peasants from the surrounding villages, terrified at the shooting, took the first trains for home. Then, amid impressive silence, the premier gave the official version of the mutiny of the battalion of the Seventeenth regiment at Agde, and its march to Beziers, fully confirming the dispatches of the Associated Press. The premier added that he could not listen to any proposition for the conditional surrender of the mutineers, as it would be an almost fatal move for the government to capitulate to the soldiers. He concluded by demanding a vote of confidence, so that the ministers could carry out in the name of the chamber the work of repression.

Fierce Opposition.

The opposing deputies accused the ministers of sending agents to stir up the populace in the south, saying that the soldiers acted like assassins; that the troops fired with little provocation and without notification, and that the soldiers who had been slaughtered. They insisted that the release of M. Perroux, former mayor of Narbonne, was a concession to the rebels. Otherwise, one of the speakers asserted, "the bloody rioting of today will be the revolution of tomorrow." Former Minister of Commerce Millerand's denunciation of M. Clemenceau was particularly violent, but fell flat, as he is strongly suspected of a desire to succeed to the premiership. Some of the parliamentary members of the opposition appeared to place the interests of the country above their party and supported the government.

Vote of Confidence.

After six hours' debate the chamber, by a vote of 223 to 227, decided to support the cabinet.

After the riotous events of yesterday, the appearance of Narbonne today was comparatively tame. Soldiers were everywhere in such numbers that the lights were at least temporarily coerced into inactivity.

The wreckage resulting from last night's riot still litters the streets, and all stores and banks are closed and barred up.

Two additional regiments of infantry and two of cavalry arrived at Narbonne this morning and detachments of artillery are on their way there.

Funeral Routes Isolated.
The authorities at Narbonne have issued orders that specific routes must be followed by those attending the funerals of the riot victims this afternoon. The routes were entirely isolated by troops.

The receipt of a dispatch from Beziers later in the day, announcing that the mutinous battalion had decided to return to the rest of the regiment, caused decided satisfaction in official circles, as it is hoped that the action would hold off further open insubordination.

ONLY TEN MORE DAYS REMAIN BEFORE ENTRIES CLOSE IN YARD CONTEST

Yesterday was the longest day of the year and, being so, it brought the longest list of entries for 'The Herald's' yard prizes. Only ten days remain for entry. There are scores of slips of paper on the files of John S. Critchlow, the business manager of 'The Herald'; these represent the number of the ambitious householders who have desire to compete in the contest for the beautiful Salt Lake City.

Today there will be raking and scraping and digging and weeding by thousands of gardeners and thousands of ladies and lassies who are out for first prize. They are engaged in beautifying their premises and consequently beautifying Salt Lake, which, of a right, ought to be one of the most beautiful towns in the world.

It should be borne in mind that there is $200 awaiting the ones who have the most neatly kept premises. It should further be borne in mind that the prizes are awarded for back yards as well as front yards. Horse lots, neatly trimmed and maintained in a state of cleanliness, are as apt to win the first prize in the district as the lawns in front, with their flowers and their clinging, climbing vines and their arbors or arborescences, all so cool and so inviting.

The aim 'The Herald' has is to make Salt Lake generally beautiful, in the back as well as in the front, and the hope is achieving this. 'The Herald' believes that interest will be stimulated in the all-south time ago. Mr. Morrow strenuously objected to the affinity that, through psychological influences, had grown to the satisfaction of the jury, William Grover. Grover is a smelterman employed at the Garfield plant. He is much younger than Mr. Morrow. The psychological moment was seized by the psychological peace officer to make the arrest.

Now it develops that Mrs. Morrow had had affinities before, numerous affinities. The record of the affinities that Mrs. Morrow had had during her brief lifetime of 35 years is best told by the Spokane-Review, a newspaper in Spokane:

"People in Spokane acquainted with Mrs. Lulu Morrow, divorced wife of Captain James Morrow of the Spokane police department, were interested yesterday in the report from Salt Lake, Utah, that Mrs. Morrow was again married. The decision of the chamber to hold a session tomorrow and expedite the wine frauds bill will assist the work of conciliation. It is hoped. Although apart from the mutiny in the Seventeenth regiment no serious outbreaks were reported up to midnight, the number of cases of tearing up of railroad tracks, seizing of officials who are held as hostages and kidnapping isolated police has justified the belief that the militant populace might, if leaders were forthcoming, be organized for guerrilla warfare. The whereabouts of M. Albert, leader of the movement, remains a mystery.

ENGINEERS TALK OF THEIR WORK

First Banquet of Utah Society an Unqualified Success.

ENTHUSIASM IN EVIDENCE

DEVELOPMENT IN SEVERAL IMPORTANT LINES DISCUSSED.

The first annual banquet of the Utah Society of Engineers, held last night at the Commercial club, was a splendid success. Over 150 engineers from Salt Lake, Ogden and other points in the state attended and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed in the state.

C. O. Harris was toastmaster, Professor Joseph F. Merrill, president of the society, opened the program of speeches with an address in which he congratulated the society on its organization and first banquet, and predicted for it a brilliant future. He reviewed the development of the engineering work of this state in the past decade and pleaded for more recognition of the engineering profession in the state.

L. C. Kelsey, city engineer, in an extended talk, went over the progress made in beautifying Salt Lake in the past ten years and the engineering problems of the past and present. R. R. Lyman discussed civil engineering in Utah. Sidney Bamberger made a witty, clever speech and he was followed by Charles F. Ruffner on hydro-electrical engineering in Utah.

"According to report in Spokane at the time of Mrs. Morrow's last marriage, to Morrow, he was her sixth husband, and before him was married to her a second time. According to report at that time, Mrs. Morrow's married name had been Lulu Wilkins-Lewis-Sweeney-Stahlman-Coverly-Morrow. All of her husbands but the first one said to be dead, she had been married to Mrs. Morrow is about 35 years of age. For a time it is said she averaged a new husband for about each two years. She had been married to Captain Coverly but a short time when their troubles started, and before she had been divorced from the captain the number of months required by law she was married to Mr. Morrow. It was because of this condition that she and Mr. Morrow were married a second time.

"About two years ago Mrs. Morrow and her husband removed to Utah, where they had since resided. She was accompanied by her son, about 19 years of age. One of her sons was injured in an elevator accident in the city of Salt Lake and died. Shortly before the death of this son he accidentally shot another son near Newport, Idaho, and the latter died.

"Persons who know Mrs. Morrow say that she is exceedingly attractive. She is passably good looking and is neat in her appearance."

BUILDING LAW IS VIOLATED

Inspector Gamble Admits Dereliction Before Council Committee on Municipal Laws.

Building permits are being issued by D. W. Gamble, building inspector, for structures that are contrary to the provisions of the building ordinance. This fact was proved beyond dispute at a meeting of the council committee on municipal laws last evening.

Two weeks ago Councilman Fernstrom introduced a resolution directing the chief of the fire department and the building inspector to tear down a shack erected by L. J. Bowers at 36 State street, between Second and Third East and Third and Fourth South streets with shingled roofs. The inspector could not explain this situation although he tried to show it was the custom.

After some discussion it was decided to let the Bowers building remain one year.
